MARINE CORPS OFFERS RECRUITING INDUCEMENT

A recent high-level decision permits Marines who are married to leave their families in certain Government low - cost housing when they are ordered overseas.

Already in effect, Leathernecks ordered west from Camp Pendleton or El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, both in Southern California, may continue renting federal quarters for their dependents.

Prior to the change, such separated wives and children were forced to move out of their G. I. quarters within 30 days after a Marine's departure overseas.

Usually they had to return to their home towns or be faced with moving to a higher rental.

Local recruiter, Master Sergeant John D. Moore from the Marine Recruiting Office in Lynchburg, emphasized this is in line with Marine Corps policy to encourage voluntary enlistments of valuable key men.

News Around Town

By Mrs. Calvin Robinson

"Pretty Boy" is back home. Pull up a chair and listen while we tell the story—

"Pretty Boy" is a parakeet, one of those lovely talking birds now a favorite in thousands of American homes. This one belonged to Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Coleman, of Appomattox. Or rather maybe it really belonged to their five-year-old son, Ken.

It was after dark Sunday when Mrs. Coleman let "Pretty Boy" out of his cage to get needed exercise by flying around in the house. She happened to open the back door, and as she closed the door behind her she saw that the friendly bird —a tiny mass of blue and yellow— a true phenomenon of nature — had been perched on her shoulder. And suddenly "Pretty Boy" zoomed off into the cold and dreary night.

The alarm was sounded, and then young Ken got a flash light and went looking for his bird.

His search was to no avail, and surely here was one parakeet destined to freeze to death or make a meal for some hungry cat.

But Ken was undaunted. He insisted that the bird cage be hung on the front porch, with the cage door open. He said, "Pretty Boy will come back!"

But Sunday night passed, and then Monday and Tuesday passed. The neighbors drove by and saw the empty bird cage, but only Ken maintained hope.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Frank Ramsey, who lives a few blocks away, was out in his front yard. Suddenly he felt something on his shoulder. Lo and behold it was a beautiful bird. Why, he said to himself, it is one one of those parakeets! He eased along to the automobile, with the bird on his shoulder. He closed the windows, and started to drive over town and try to find the owner. He did not know that young Ken had lost the bird, but as his car passed, he saw an empty bird cage on a front porch, quickly guessed that this was the house, and stopped to inquire.

And so "Pretty Boy" is back home.

There is a happy youngster in Appomattox who can tell you: Never give up hope!
